TRAN 803BF Hong Kong Legal System and Legal English

Assignment 1 (September 2018)

A collection of illegal weapons used in a local crime spree is recovered by police in Tsim Sha Tsui. Zhang Wen owns a local establishment called the Happy Sailor and has never been in trouble with the police before. One morning whilst opening his bar he is stopped by the police; they then demand to see his identification. Wen is shocked, and embarrassed as many local residents who know Wen have seen him being apprehended and have stopped to watch the events unfold. Without explanation the police arrest Wen, handcuff him and transport him to the local police station. Wen arrives and is questioned aggressively about what he knows of illegal weapons being sold on his premises. Wen has no idea what the police are talking about and says so. Frightened, Wen asks to call his lawyer and is refused. After two hours the police release Wen without explanation. That very same night after Wen closes his bar and whilst his parents, wife and children are sleeping, the police silently enter his premises, walk upstairs wake Wen and his family and arrest him again. He is provided no reasons for this. Wen is humiliated in front of his family and they are frightened. He is threatened if he does not answer all the questions put to him. Wen concerned for his family does so. Wen believes he has been arrested and detained without reason. Wen appears before the court. He later seeks to change the law to stop this happening to anyone else.

Advise Wen.

Directions:

Explain Wen’s rights under the Basic Law and the Criminal Law system in Hong Kong. Make references to the Basic Law and the Police Force Ordinance. Explain what the process is to have the law changed.

Dear James Parker,

Under common law system, this is WAR and not a legal case. British Law (under CAP 74) by itself is not enough to protect a Warmonger in vain.

So Mr. Wen, which re-defined as American President, is not protected by any law in Hong Kong.

- According to the People's Republic of China Basic Law Article 96, the Central People's Government supports and assists the legislative and judicial functions of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region to make laws and interpretations to the Hong Kong Basic Law.

- Police Force Ordinance as of 21:04 is not found in the Hong Kong Legislation.
